

7 November 1950

PROBLEM: To estimate the Communist reactions to possible UN - US courses of action with regard to Chinese Communist intervention in the war in Korea and to assess the consequences thereof.

The problem will be considered from the standpoint of:

- (a) Possible US-UN courses of action to counter Chinese Communist intervention in Korea;
- (b) Advantages to be gained by the US and UN from each course of action, including deterrent effects on Communist China and the USSR;
- (c) Disadvantages to be expected by the US and UN from each course of action including provocative effects on Communist China and the USSR.
- (d) Probable consequences in terms of over-all advantages and disadvantages to the US and UN from each course of action.

General Cabell

STAT

3.4(c) - 1949 Act

PL